Declaration/Disclosure and Fair Presentation

We would remind you that when taking out (re)insurance that is subject to the laws of England and Wales, Scotland or Northern Ireland (“English law”) it is your duty to disclose to (re)insurers all information, facts and circumstances which are, or ought to be, known to you and which are material to the risk and to do so in a reasonably clear and accessible manner. This duty arises when you take out and renew insurance, and when you vary an existing policy. A material circumstance is one that a prudent (re)insurer would consider influential in determining whether or not to provide cover, if so on what terms and what price to charge for the cover. Any material change in facts previously disclosed in connection with the (re)insurance should be advised to us if the coverage is to be amended or if the period of cover is to be extended at renewal. A fact should not be regarded as immaterial merely because it is not the subject of a question in this document and your duty is not limited to answering the specific questions that insurers or we ask you. If in any doubt as to whether information is material, you should disclose it, as failure to do so could prejudice your right to recover in the event of a claim or allow (re)insurers to apply additional terms or even to avoid the policy from inception and treat it as if it had never existed. You should also ensure that all the information you provide to us is correct. Your attention is specifically drawn, and we ask you to read carefully, the separate “The Duty of Disclosure and Fair Presentation” document, which sets out in further detail your duty to disclose all material circumstances. If having read the above and that document you think we need any further information, or if you have any questions, please let us know. If your (re)insurance policy is not governed by English law we recommend that you obtain independent advice as to your disclosure obligations under the relevant law.

I have read the above. I hereby declare that to the best of my knowledge and belief, the particulars and answers herein are true and correct and that I have not knowingly withheld any information, which would influence the decision of (re)insurers in regard to this proposal.

I also confirm that I have read the understood the Duty of Disclosure and Fair Presentation document.
